THE GARBOLOGISTS by Lindsay Joelle

A heartwarming, funny, and deeply human play about finding connection in the most unexpected places. When a seasoned sanitation worker is paired with an eager new trainee, their days of collecting trash become a journey through race, grief, resilience, and the surprising beauty hidden in what we throw away. Through sharp dialogue and tender moments, The Garbologists shows us that sometimes the things we discard hold the greatest meaning.

Sunday
JUNE 22
2 p.m.

DATE OF RELEASE by Andrea Ambam

Separated by incarceration, twin sisters Jade and Jasper make parallel attempts to get free, despite being on opposite sides of prison walls. One seeks somatic therapy at a wellness studio, the other prepares for her fourth parole hearing. What tethers them? The shared, aching anticipation of release.
